Message from the Mayor

As I write this message, ballots are being mailed to voters. By the time you receive this newsletter you will have elected four City Councilors from a field of 14 candidates. What an amazing demonstration of citizen engagement. It's exciting to see so many residents committed to serving and ensuring the betterment of our community.

We're all aware of the widespread struggles that have been occurring between municipalities and the oil and gas industry in Colorado. Lafayette has not been spared these challenges. Your city leadership continues to hold the health, safety and protection of residents in these matters as our highest priority. We've gone to court, enacted bans and moratoriums, collaborated with neighboring communities, hired special counsel, and proposed increased setbacks and flowline mapping regulations. In the event we receive a drilling application for property within the City of Lafayette, we will actively defend the Climate Bill of Rights. We're arming ourselves with as many tools as possible to protect our homes, schools, and hospitals from oil and gas operations. Heavy industrial activity of any kind has no place in our neighborhoods. Stay up to date on these activities by visiting cityoflafayette.com/OilAndGas and subscribing to "City News" at cityoflafayette.com/NotifyMe. If you want to learn more about the impact of oil and gas in Colorado and in your neighborhood, check out oilandgasthreatmap.com.

As we see the devastating impacts of climate change with more intense weather events and a year-round wildfire season, we know that it is up to us as a community to become as resilient and sustainable as possible. Lafayette currently has one of the highest installed solar per capita rates in the country—157 watts/person. To be considered a leader in the industry, a threshold of 99 watts/person must be exceeded. Other sustainability initiatives we're working on are; setting goals to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, reducing barriers and lowering costs for residential solar, and partnering with the National Renewable Energy Laboratory (NREL) on a strategic plan for electric vehicle infrastructure. To access a wide array of information and resources, visit cityoflafayette.com/GoGreen.

In October the Lafayette Youth Advisory Committee (LYAC) presented City Council with the Lafayette's Choice ordinance to promote children's health by requiring healthy beverages such as water, milk, and milk alternatives be offered as the default drink on restaurant kids' menus. While restaurants can still offer sugary drinks, and parents have the option to order them for their children, the intent of the new ordinance is to promote healthy meal options for children and implement innovative approaches to support a healthier community.

Enjoy your holidays!

► Go Green Lafayette!

Did you know Lafayette is considered a leader both nationally and state-wide for our environmental sustainability efforts? We currently have one of the highest installed solar per capita rates in the country and were recently awarded a gold level SolSmart designation by the U.S. Department of Energy.

The City, through the Lafayette Energy Sustainability Advisory and Waste Reduction Advisory Committees, provides a wealth of resources, information and programs to assist residents and business owners to conserve energy and reduce our carbon footprint. Peruse through cityoflafayette.com/GoGreen to find support on

- Resources, rebates, discounts on solar
- Programs and incentives to make home energy upgrades easier and more affordable
- Electric vehicle charging stations
- Water conservation programs and tips
- Much more!

▶ South Boulder Road / 120th Street Multimodal Improvement Project

The City, in partnership with Boulder County Transportation and CDOT, is working on a street-widening and multimodal improvement project along So. Boulder Road and 120th Street. The Public Works Department is collecting public input on these plans.

The project extends along So. Boulder Road from Mallory Street to 120th Street, and on 120th Street from Eastwind Drive to Coal Creek. It includes a 10-foot wide multi-use sidewalk along Merlin Avenue to Sanchez Elementary, and a path along City Center Circle from So. Boulder Road to the Lafayette Park-n-Ride. Learn more, view maps, and provide your input at cityoflafayette.com/SBR.
